PRINT & CUT · TWO CARDS PER SHEET

Sitter Handoff Card

Everything a pet sitter needs on one pocket card — cut along the dotted line, one to hand over, one for the fridge.

Pet sitter — everything at a glance

pet's name: _____

away from: _____ back by: _____

Feeding & water — times, spots, scoop size

Walks, potty, litter & play

Meds — what, when, the trick that works

Vet — clinic, phone, after-hours

My phone & the backup human

Where things are — leash, carrier, food bin, keys

Pleases & nevers

☐ Send one photo a day, pretty please — it calms everyone, including the pet.

✂ CUT HERE — FRONT DOOR COPY ABOVE, FRIDGE COPY BELOW

Pet sitter — everything at a glance

pet's name: _____

away from: _____ back by: _____

Feeding & water — times, spots, scoop size

Walks, potty, litter & play

Meds — what, when, the trick that works

Vet — clinic, phone, after-hours

My phone & the backup human

Where things are — leash, carrier, food bin, keys

Pleases & nevers

☐ Send one photo a day, pretty please — it calms everyone, including the pet.

HOW TO USE IT

How to Use · Sitter Handoff Card

Two cards per sheet: the upper one goes with the sitter, the lower one takes the fridge’s best spot.

What this sheet builds

A pocket-sized brief a sitter can digest in the doorway: times, tricks, who to call and where the leash lives. It also quietly doubles as your own emergency card — fill it for yourself once and hand it over when a flat tyre eats your evening.

Sixty-second setup

1. Draft the boxes by hand first; the sitter card wants your normal words, not tidy handwriting printouts.
2. Write the “nevers” in capital letters — sitters scan, and capitals get read.
3. Attach the pet photo on the back so the card belongs to the right animal even in a multi-pet house.

The fridge copy is not spare

- The fridge card keeps your family honest about the meds schedule when you’re home, too.
- Refresh both cards whenever anything changes — new meds, new clinic, new trick for pill time.
- Overnight stays? Add what’s forbidden in bed, and which toy negotiates sleep.

Warm tip

Sitters photograph the fridge card as their own backup — that’s the point of it living where things get read. A photo a day on the foot check-box keeps worried owners calm and the pet a touch famous.