PRINT & CLIP · WALK AT PET-EYE-LEVEL

Pet-Safe Room Checklist

A slow, room-by-room walkthrough at nose height — because cords, crumbs and pills all live below the grown-up sight-line.

How the walk works: enter each room like the pet does — low, slow, and curious. Tick what's already snug; untick the moment the season, the snack, or the furniture changes.

Entry & doors

- [ ] cords, chargers & blind pulls tucked or chew-guarded
- [ ] small bits — coins, batteries, hair ties — off low tables
- [ ] bags & backpacks zipped; snack wrappers can't escape
- [ ] trash bin lidded or latched
- [ ] quick-escape doors have a "shut fast" routine the family knows

Living room

- [ ] plants confirmed pet-safe, and out of reach anyway
- [ ] pills, gum & candy off every surface — including guests' bags
- [ ] heater, fireplace & candles have a pet-free zone
- [ ] string lights & floor cables chew-guarded
- [ ] a quiet den exists — crate, blanket or a cosy corner

Kitchen & feeding corner

- [ ] people-food pitfalls (onion, dough, xylitol) stay pet-free
- [ ] trash, compost & recycling latched
- [ ] oven & dishwasher doors shut between uses
- [ ] cleaning sprays live in a latched cupboard
- [ ] the feeding corner: mat down, bowls rinsed, water fresh

Bath & laundry

- [ ] meds, vitamins & sprays closed in a latched cupboard
- [ ] tub drained; washer lid down; dryer door shut
- [ ] strings & elastic bits off the floor
- [ ] cabinet latches fit curious paws
- [ ] wet corners get a towel — no slip surprises

Bedroom & closets

- [ ] bedside caddy is chew-proof — nothing crunchy in reach
- [ ] under-bed cubes hold string, socks & rings, safely shut
- [ ] closets get a closed-door rule at night
- [ ] window perches stand behind secure screens
- [ ] the den is dressed for winter — blanket up, spot soft

Basement, garage & bins

- [ ] antifreeze, paint & oil sealed and shelved high
- [ ] pest baits & traps out of pet zones entirely
- [ ] sharp tools hung or boxed
- [ ] bins lidded and tucked away from wanderers
- [ ] the path in: no loose wires, no mystery puddles

Then step outside and do the same walk: gate latches, fence gaps, plants & puddles — and a shady spot with fresh water always waiting.

HOW TO USE IT

How to Use · Pet-Safe Room Checklist

Six rooms, tick-boxes for every hazard zone, one gentle outside reminder.

What this sheet builds

A house-truth that stays true: the walkthrough takes each room from “probably fine” to “checked, dated, done”. It’s the paw-side mirror of a home safety pass — for the human side of the same idea, the free home safety pack pairs neatly with this one.

Sixty-second setup

1. Walk each room once, honestly, with the pet trailing you — they’ll point out what they chew with their nose.
2. Tick only what’s done; the unticked boxes are your honest to-do list, not a guilt list.
3. Pencil the season at the top; re-walk when guests, holidays or new furniture arrive.

When in doubt, play for safety

- Any plant, product or snack you’re unsure about goes out of reach first and gets asked about later.
- Kittens, puppies and newly-adopted shyer animals rate a stricter pass: everything below knee height is fair game.
- Tick what passes; a no-go zone gets written on the laziest, most visible spot available.

Warm tip

Offer the walkthrough to the whole family in turns: kids love hunting hazards when it’s framed as pet-protection rather than a chore, and fresh eyes keep finding what grown-ups stopped seeing.
